

DON CLYDE was born and reared in Wasatch County, is a representative of one of the honored and influential pioneer families of the Heber district of the county, and is here associated with his father in extensive and well ordered ranch enterprise, with special attention given to the sheep industry. He is known and valued as one of the progressive and resourceful younger exponents of live-stock operations in this section of Utah and has made an admirable record in this connection since he assumed management of the live stock business controlled by his father and himself, his home being in the City of Heber, the county seat, and his birth having here occurred August 9, 1898.

Mr. Clyde is a son of Hon. James William and Mary (Campbell) Clyde, both of sterling Scotch ancestry. James W. Clyde was a pioneer in the cattle business in the Heber district, later turned his activities largely to the sheep industry, and he has likewise been one of the successful promoters of agricultural enterprise in this locality. In 1915 he became actively identified with the banking business at Heber, where he is vice president of the Heber National Bank, besides which he is a director of the National Copper Bank of Salt Lake City. He has been a leader in civic, industrial and financial development and progress in Wasatch County, has inviolable place in popular confidence and good will, and has been in the most significant degree one of the influential citizens of this section of the state. He served six terms as mayor of Heber and two terms as a member of the State Senate. He is a director of the Union Stock Yards in Salt Lake City, is president of the Heber Mercantile Company, and he was mayor of Heber at the time the system of the Heber Light & Power Company was developed and installed, he having been one of the original stockholders of this public-utility corporation.

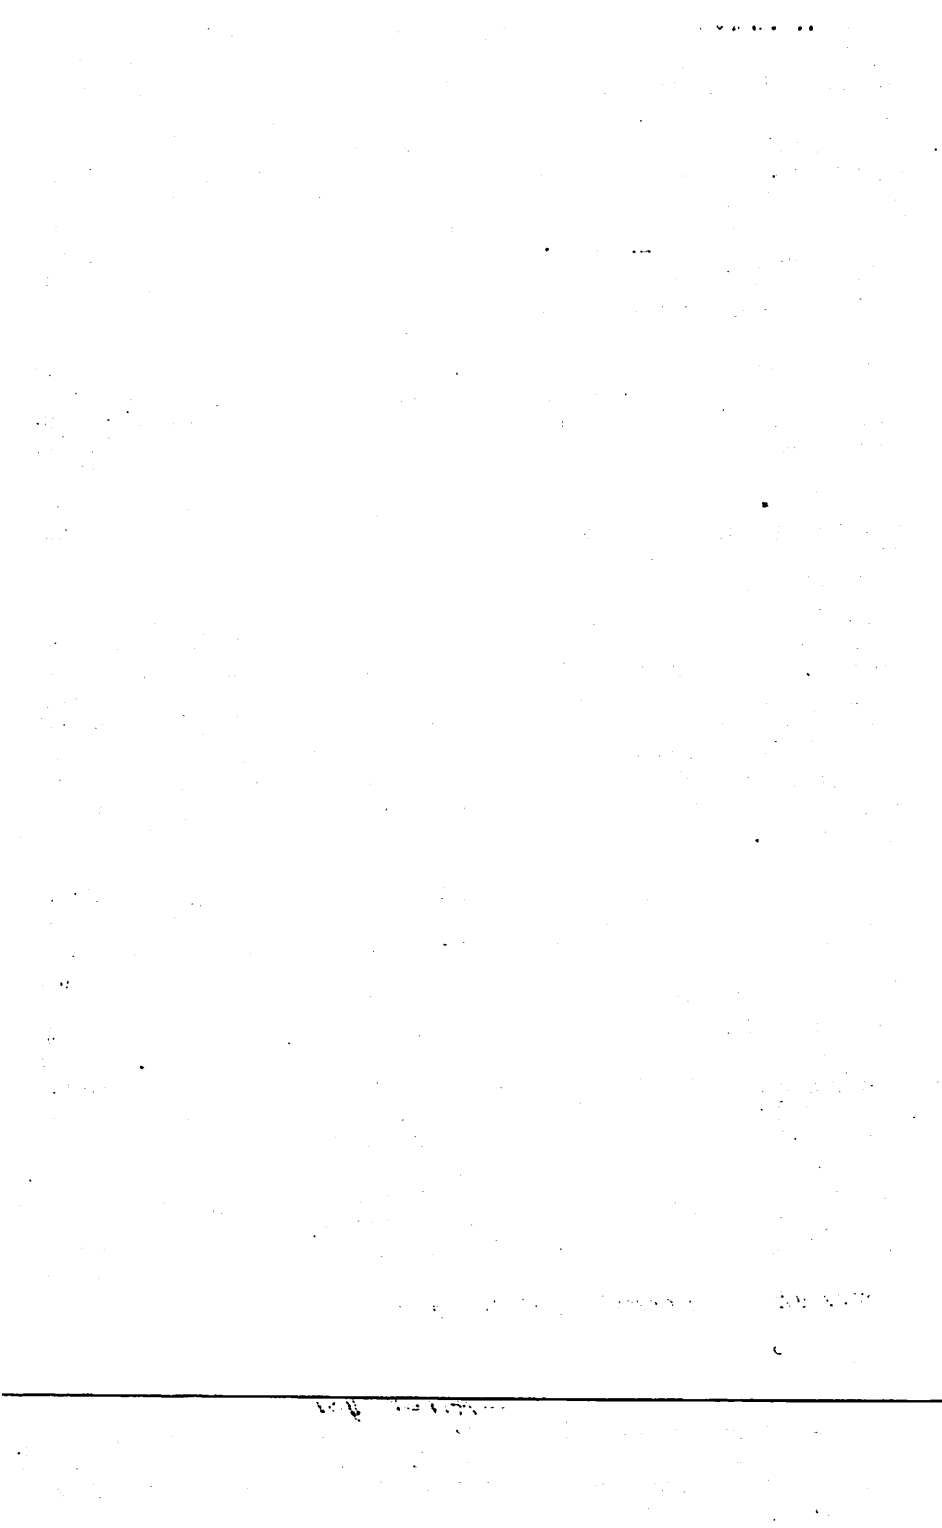

After completing his studies in the Heber High School Don Clyde became a student in Brigham Young University, at Provo, and thereafter he was for two years a student in the University of Utah and attended the Utah State Agricultural College two semesters. After leaving college he became closely associated with his father's ranch enterprise, and since 1920 he has been in active charge of their extensive live stock business and operations, largely devoted to the breeding and raising of fine sheep. His father organized and financed the district sheep club for boys, to encourage youthful participation in the raising of pure-blood sheep, mostly of the Hampshire type, and this club had the distinction of being the first of its kind in the entire state.

Mr. Clyde was reared in the faith of the Church of Latter Day Saints and in his adult years has been an active worker in its behalf. In the period of 1922-24 he served the church in a mission to Great Britain, his return to his native county having occurred in the latter year, in which he was made first counselor in the local Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association. In 1925 he was chosen stake Sunday School superintendent, and March 11, 1928, he was made second counselor to the president of the stake.

Utah - Storied Domain
- Alter Vol

499

Utah - Steried Domain Vol III

HON. JAMES WILLIAM CLYDE, OF HEBER, UTAH. THE TWO YOUNGEST daughters are Miss Celia, born at Paris October 20, 1905, a graduate of Brigham Young College; and Miss Ruth, born at Paris July 10, 1910, a graduate of the Utah Agricultural College.

DON CLYDE was born and reared in Wasatch County, is a representative of one of the honored and influential pioneer families of the Heber district of the county, and is here associated with his father in extensive and well ordered ranch enterprise, with special attention given to the sheep industry. He is known and valued as one of the progressive and resourceful younger exponents of live-stock operations in this section of Utah and has made an admirable record in this connection since he assumed management of the live stock business controlled by his father and himself, his home being in the City of Heber, the county seat, and his birth having here occurred August 9, 1898.

Mr. Clyde is a son of Hon. James William and Mary (Campbell) Clyde, both of sterling Scotch ancestry. James W. Clyde was a pioneer in the cattle business in the Heber district, later turned his activities largely to the sheep industry, and he has likewise been one of the successful promoters of agricultural enterprise in this locality. In 1915 he became actively identified with the banking business at Heber, where he is vice president of the Heber National Bank, besides which he is a director of the National Copper Bank of Salt Lake City. He has been a leader in civic, industrial and financial development and progress in Wasatch County, has inviolable place in popular confidence and good will, and has been in the most significant degree one of the influential citizens of this section of the state. He served six terms as mayor of Heber and two terms as a member of the State Senate. He is a director of the Union Stock Yards in Salt Lake City, is president of the Heber Mercantile Company, and he was mayor of Heber at the time the system of the Heber Light & Power Company was developed and installed, he having been one of the original stockholders of this public-utility corporation.

After completing his studies in the Heber High School Don Clyde became a student in Brigham Young University, at Provo, and thereafter he was for two years a student in the University of Utah and attended the Utah State Agricultural College two semesters. After leaving college he became closely associated with his father's ranch enterprise, and since 1920 he has been in active charge of their extensive live stock business and operations, largely devoted to the breeding and raising of fine sheep. His father organized and financed the district sheep club for boys, to encourage youthful participation in the raising of pure-blood sheep, mostly of the Hampshire type, and this club had the distinction of being the first of its kind in the entire state.

Mr. Clyde was reared in the faith of the Church of Latter Day Saints and in his adult years has been an active worker in its behalf. In the period of 1922-24 he served the church in a mission to Great Britain, his return to his native county having occurred in Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association. In 1925 he was chosen stake Sunday School superintendent, and March 11, 1928, he was made second counselor to the president of the stake.